ALLEGED BANDIT IS CAUGHT FOLLOWING ROBBERY OF FRIEND

Canton Newspaper Man
Victim Of Shooting

CANTON, O., March 20.—Held up by a man whom he had befriended, Alfred Davis, 20, Alliance, circulation manager for the Canton Daily News, was shot and dangerously wounded early today.

The shooting occurred on the Cox highway near Louisville as Davis, in the role of Good Samaritan, was driving towards Alliance with Lloyd Hoover. Hoover was arrested and lodged in Stark County jail.

Davis met Hoover in a sandwich shop after visiting a girl friend at Danascus. Hoover asked him to drive him here, saying he lived near Harrisburg.

After the two had traveled a few miles, Hoover, Davis said, suggested a short-cut over a side road but Davis continued on the main highway.

A short distance further on, Davis said Hoover drew a revolver and shot him in the neck.

Davis, fearing his life, tossed his purse to Hoover and pleaded with him not to kill him.

Hoover, according to Davis, grabbed the pocketbook, containing only $4 and jumped from the car.

Davis attempted to drive away and Hoover, he said, jumped on the running board and fired a second shot. Hoover then jerked Davis from the car and attacked him with a flashlight, knocking him unconscious.

Hoover pushed Davis back into the car, Davis said, and drove towards Louisville. As they entered the village Davis grappled with his assailant and Hoover shot a third time, then jumped from the car and fled.

Hoover was arrested later at the Canton bus terminal as he was about to board a bus.

ATTORNEY WHO LED CLEVELAND GRAFT PROBE SUCCEUMS

Dies In Sanitarium; Feared His Life Was In Danger.

CLEVELAND, O., March 20.—The death of Wilfred A. Torrance, 30, young attorney whose revelations started the investigation into graft in the city land deals here, had another dramatic chapter today.

Torrance died in the Ream Sanitarium for Mild Mental and Nervous Diseases, where he is said to have gone suffering from fears that his life was in danger.

Police Chief L. G. Corlett of East Cleveland said that Torrance's fears had led the young attorney to apply for permission to carry a revolver. The permit was refused.

Torrance provided the information upon which Councilman F. W. Walz asked for an investigation into Councilman William G. Gibbons' proposal to purchase a playground site.

That investigation spread into numerous others that thus far have resulted in sentencing of Councilman Liston G. Schooley and his son to the penitentiary, indictment of Councilman William E. Potter on charges of using their elective offices for profit.

Torrance, as an attorney, originally had represented Alexis E. Meade, owner of the site which Councilman Gibbons proposed that the city buy as a playground for $47,500.

Officials of the sanitarium refused to give out any information concerning Torrance's death.

NEW YORK, March 20.—The New York Times announced today that Commander Richard E. Byrd had flown to the rescue of three members of his antarctic expedition who had been forced down on the ice, and had found them safe and well.

Larry Gould, Berni Balchen and Harold June, who started from the expedition's base for a flight over the Rockefeller Mountains, had encountered a severe storm which crippled their plane. They were unable to communicate with Byrd and the rescue flight was undertaken to determine their plight.

AX TERRORIST MURDERS GIRL

Mutilated Body Is Found In Culvert; Seek Negro

GARY, Ind., March 20.—A Negro ax terrorist was being sought by police today as the slayer of Josephine Adorizzi, 20-year-old grocery store clerk, whose mutilated body was found yesterday by school boys in a prairie two blocks from her home.

The body, disfigured by blows, was partly stripped of clothing and had been hidden in a culvert. Physicians said the girl had been attacked.

The girl left home Sunday about dusk to meet her fiancé. She was never seen alive by her family again.

A checkup of police reports revealed that several women had recently complained of being molested by a Negro who wields an ax. In some cases he robbed the women and in others attempted to attack them.

HORSE CAVE, Ky., March 20.—Found by bloodhounds only 500 yards from its resting place in Crystal Cave, the body of Floyd Collins was back on exhibition today.

The body of the explorer, who met death several years ago while exploring a cave he had discovered, was stolen from its metal glass casket yesterday, Dr. H. R. Thomas, owner of Crystal Cave, said.

He said when he and an attendant went to open the cave they found a chain on the door broken, and the empty casket 100 feet away.

Blood hounds were put on the trail and, taking a scent from the coffin, ran directly to the body on the bank of the Green River, 500

ALIEN-LABOR BILL IS DEFEATED AFTER WARM SENATE FIGHT

Aigler Leads Battle
Against Measure;
Klan Accused

COLUMBUS, O., March 20.—The state senate today was still shaken by repercussions from the fight over the Clark anti-alien employment bill which went down to defeat last night.

The measure, sponsored by Senator William Clark of Champaign County, would have prohibited employment of foreigners in public work.

It was openly charged that the Ku Klux Klan was behind the bill. The fight against the measure was led by Senator Allen G. Aigler of Sandusky County, who stepped out of his official role as floor leader to wage his fight.

Aigler called upon "the sportsmanship" of the senators, asking "why legislation against all foreigners should be enacted." He then assailed the constitutionality of the bill.

Aigler finally challenged the senators to vote on the measure, as if the roll call were in secret. He drew a parallel of what Americans would think if Canada enacted a similar law.

Other opponents were Senators L. L. Marshall and George H. Bender of Cleveland who demanded "why the geographical location of one's birthplace should affect his ability to do a good day's work."

"Speaking as an elder of the Presbyterian Church," said Senator Bender, "I oppose this bill. I have received hundreds of letters for it and none against it but I am, nevertheless, opposed to it."

"The Ku Klux Klan is for this bill. I am showing you a letter on their stationery for it. It is time to show courage and shake from the back of Ohio these un-American, un-Christian organizations which parade as American and Christian bodies."

"I used to fear the pope wanted America when I was a child. The people of Ohio like men of courage. Let the Ohio senate do an about face and kill this bill and the spirit behind it. I do not think or believe Senator Clark is a party to those who would exploit racial hatred."

Senator Clark denied the Klan had inspired the bill. Those voting for the bill were Anderson of Richland County; Clark of Urbana; Emmons of Akron; Farnsworth of Toledo; Gillen of Jackson; Johnson of Fulton; Kuhns of Dayton; LeFever of Athens; Martin of Cincinnati; Miller of Butler; Nickels of Tuscarawas; Rea of Madison; Rohe of Seneca; Scott of Ross and Wise of Stark.

MODERN PAUL REVERE

Red Cross Worker Rides Through Flood-Menaced
District Spreading Alarm.

ALANTA, Ga., March 20.—Warned by the shouts of Edward H. Calvin, Red Cross worker, who rode through the Apalachicola Valley in an automobile, the residents of this rich cotton farming section were safe from flood waters today.

Only this warning, according to Red Cross officials, has prevented a death toll in the district. According to information reaching here from the flooded districts, this new menace from high waters is a result of the great drainage of waters of the north into creeks feeding the Apalachicola and Chattahoochee Rivers.

The crux of the flood today is at River Junction where the two rivers converge in Florida. A few miles north, is the Georgia line.

Calvin, starting from Bainbridge, drove south just ahead of the flooding waters. It is believed he is safe in one of the lower river towns.

River Junction is partly under water today. The crest is expected within the next eighteen hours. If it reaches a height to flow into the railroad yards, it is believed the water will tie up all railroads in the section as the town is a switching point.

The only other point in this section suffering from floods is Port Gaines, Ga. Most of the residents of this town of 1500 persons have left their homes for higher ground. The Chattahoochee River, on which the village is situated, about eighty miles north of River Junction, although at high water, is not alarming, it was reported.

SLATER FOLLOWING NEW CLEW IN SEARCH FOR MISSING CHILD

WOOSTER, O., March 20.—Orla Slater, Cincinnati detective and Roy Horst, marshal of Orrville, uncle of Melvin Horst, 4, whose disappearance resulted in a three months fruitless search and the convictions of Elias and Arthur Arnold, on child stealing charges, led Wooster to follow a new clew today.

The two refused to give their destination. The fact that Horst accompanied the Detective led followers of the investigation to believe the two have gone to see another child who is reported to resemble Melvin.

Meanwhile, hearing of a motion of a new trial for the Arnolds, convicted of child stealing has been set for Friday afternoon.

Twenty reasons why the motion should be granted are set forth in a petition filed by A. D. Metz of Wooster and Willis Horn of Orrville, attorneys for the two.

Special Prosecutor Walter J. Mowbray is charged with misconduct because he took the stand as a witness for the state. The jury, it is charged, were permitted to hear comments of spectators in a court room that "surged with desire for the Arnolds' conviction."

The petition also attacked the credibility of Junior Hannah, 8, the state's star witness, and declared that new evidence is available, disproving the Arnolds' connection with the Horst boy's disappearance.

Hopes that a conviction in the case would result in the boy being discovered are dying, as the two Arnolds remain silent. The elder Arnold faces a penitentiary term and his son a term in the reformatory if his pleas for a new trial are denied.

MARSHAL FOCH DIES IN PARIS

PARIS, France, March 20.—Field Marshal Ferdinand Foch, supreme commander of the allied armies in the World War and probably the world's most brilliant modern military strategist, died at his home here today.

Death was due to heart trouble and complications which developed into uremia. He was seventy-seven years of age.

Foch, a kindly, religious man; a soldier asking only to be permitted to do his duty; a born leader of keen intellect and shrewd foresight, was a military strategist who knew no superior.

When called to the supreme command of the allied armies he performed his task of turning a losing fight into victory methodically and capably. History will tell how he directed the five greatest battles ever fought at the same time; how he commanded 10,000,000 men; how he out-generaled von Hindenburg and brought the great German war machine to its knees.

Hindenburg's hordes were rolling the allies back on March 29, 1918, when Foch, once retired, was placed in supreme command. Within three weeks after the counter-offensive began, Foch had won back ground it had taken Germany four months to conquer. The battle of Chateau Thierry; the St. Mihiel sector; the final conflict in the Argonne; the hammering of the British and Belgians in Flanders and the breaking of the Hindenburg line were the high spots of Foch's career in command.

Foch was born in Pyrenees October 2, 1851. He became an artillery officer after his graduation in 1870 and won rapid promotion. Foch was in command at the outset of the war, but was retired in 1917, when he reached the age of 65, serving on the Supreme War Council until he was recalled to supreme command. He married in 1878 and has two daughters married to French army officers. His decorations include the American Distinguished Service Medal and the English Order of the Bath.

PRESIDENT HOOVER AIMS ENFORCEMENT PLAN AT ALL LAWS

Will Concentrate On Prohibition With Sustained Drive

WASHINGTON, March 20.—While federal enforcement agencies are making preparations for their most supreme effort to enforce prohibition effectively, President Hoover is seeking to balance his law enforcement commission so it will deal with all laws and not single out the dry act.

President Hoover regards the enforcement of all laws as vital and is opposed to singling out the prohibition law as a special favorite of enforcement agencies. Nevertheless, the chief difficulty in the law enforcement situation arises from the prohibition laws and attention will be concentrated on that regardless of any desire President Hoover may have to prevent over press-agenting of his purpose to make the Volstead act effective if humanly possible. There will be no sporadic "drive," but a sustained effort lasting indefinitely.

Prohibition has become a more acute subject of discussion here than anything else, due to the general feeling Mr. Hoover is going to put the law to its supreme test.

Evidences of a tightening up are seen everywhere, from the restrictions thrown around the importation of diplomatic liquor and the preparations of the prohibition bureau for educational activities and expansion of personnel down to the new drastic padlock order of the local police department. Some federal officials who hitherto have held the Volstead act lightly, have suddenly climbed aboard the water-wagon and are conspicuously turning down their glasses at parties where cocktails are served.

Hostesses who formerly understood liquor was necessary to a successful party are growing uncertain whether to serve drinks when federal officials are among the guests.

The $50,000 educational campaign now being planned by the prohibition bureau will be national in scope and has three chief objects, Assistant Treasury Secretary Seymour Lowman said today.

These objects are: "To obtain further co-operation from state officials. "Emphasize the importance of law enforcement. "Educate the public on what is being done."

Treasury officials believe, Lowman said, the wet side of the prohibition controversy has been fully presented by the newspapers, and they desire to obtain similar publicity for the dry viewpoint.

James L. Hurley and L. O. Clemmer, Xenia dairymen, through their attorney, W. L. Darlington, have filed petitions in error in Common Pleas Court, seeking reversal of their recent convictions in Probate Court on charges of illegally refilling registered milk bottles. Three appeals were filed on behalf of Hurley and one for Clemmer.

FEDERAL SOLDIERS ADVANCE ON REBELS

MEXICO CITY, March 20.—Three federal columns concentrated at Torreón today to continue the vigorous offensive against rebels in the state of Chihuahua.

The government communiqué announcing the landing at Torreón referred to the "immorality and infamy of the rebels."

Col. Jose Maria Tampia, chief of the presidential staff, estimated that the rebels had stolen a total of 3,500,000 pesos at Monterey, Saltillo, Durango and Torreón. Private banks and the Bank of Mexico branches have been robbed, he said.

Despite the large amount of booty carried off by the Escobar forces, Calles informed the President that the rebels had left behind eleven cars loaded with merchandise and twenty-nine cars containing materials for railway repairs. Fourteen engines also were available at Torreón, he said.

They talked briefly with Barnett before he was convicted for the abduction of 5-year-old Eloise Winfelt last night. Barnett is a former resident of Toledo, Ohio.

They said they intended to confront him with the circumstantial evidence that he had been molesting girls in the neighborhood of a vacant lot where Mabel was killed only a few days prior to her death, and that at the time he employed a young sweetheart of the victim.

District Attorney Earley Warren revealed that investigation of the slaying was revived when Barnett was accused of child stealing.

"We had not suspected Barnett of any wrong doing until then," Warren said. "He was a respected resident of the city and head of a mill."

"Then we received a transcript of his trial in Toledo, when he was convicted on charges of eight little girls. That, with our evidence in the Eloise kidnapping, changed our attitude toward him."

Mabel Mayer was assaulted and beaten to death by a man nearly two years ago, shortly after Marion Parker was killed. He dragged

PARRY SOUND, Ont., March 20.—Three persons are known dead and an unknown number injured in a head on collision of two crack passenger trains of the Canadian National Railway at Drocourt, forty-one miles north of here early today.

The known dead are: Conductor Barted. Brakeman Ferguson. A newsboy unidentified. The crash, according to reports received here, was between the Vancouver bound and the Toronto bound "Nationals," two of the fastest passenger trains in the service.

One of the cars is reported to have caught fire and grave fears were held for its occupants. Three emergency trains, bearing doctors and nurses, started from Toronto, Sudbury and Parry Sound as soon as word of the wreck was received.

RADIUM VICTIM

Mrs. Mildred Cardow, 22, above, Waterbury, Conn., bride of six months, died Tuesday of radium poisoning which she contracted four years ago when pointing brushes with her mouth while painting the faces of luminous watches and clocks. She is the third person to die there from the malady, for which no cure has been found.

The move was backed by the rural bloc in the house and was characterized as "a step towards transferring to the 'big city' counties the entire cost of building and maintaining state highways."

The sponsors of the measure, as the house and senate were called to order, were endeavoring to enlist Governor Myers V. Cooper behind the legislation and get it rushed through as an administration measure.

Added impetus was given the drive by fears that the session may end before the bill can be put through.

Two bills to raise the tax to four cents are pending in the house, one by Dallas Sullivan, Union County, chairman of the highways committee, and the other by L. R. Bostwick, Madison County. Sullivan's bill would allot $1,500,000 of the increased revenue to county roads and Bostwick's would give one-fifth of the revenue to the townships.

Factions supporting the two bills, and who have previously not been in agreement, are understood now to be ready to compromise their differences. The question concerning

SLEEPING VICTIMS BURIED BY DEBRIS; BUILDING WRECKED

Members Of Family Escape Death In Belmont County

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., March 20.—Vandals dynamited the home of James Kunik, former United Mine Workers leader, at Brookside, Belmont County, during the night.

Four members of the family were injured slightly. They were sleeping when the blast occurred.

The house, a two-story structure, was almost wrecked.

Mrs. Kunik and her six year old twin daughters, Betty and Betsy, were buried under the debris and their escape from death was miraculous.

Henrietta, 17, another daughter, was the least injured, although she was sleeping in a front bedroom near where the blast occurred.

Plaster and wreckage hurtled down upon her bed and when she was extricated she was pinned beneath a window sill.

Kunik was at work in the Florence mine at Martins Ferry and was not notified of the blast until early today. He was expelled from the union a year ago when he attempted to persuade miner insurgents to work in eastern Ohio fields on the $5 a day basis. Later he tried to organize a new union.

The twins were cut and bruised. Mrs. Kunik, although only slightly injured, suffered from shock and was placed under the care of a physician.

OBJECTION TO ROOT NEGOTIATIONS MAY BLOCK WORLD COURT

Borah Expected To Lead
Opposition To
Adherence

WASHINGTON, Mar. 20.—American adherence to the world court is yet a long way off despite the successful conclusions of the root negotiations at Geneva, congressional authorities agreed today.

A backstop opposition to the agreement which may be led by Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee has grown up and notice has been served privately the subject cannot be squeezed into the coming short session. Action upon it therefore may await the regular session of congress beginning next December.

In the meantime any nation which is a party to the court or a member of the council of the League of Nations could thwart the whole procedure by objecting to the Root arrangement which gives the United States the right to stop any decision from the court in which it claims an interest.

HORSE CAVE, Ky., March 20.—Found by bloodhounds only 500 yards from its resting place in Crystal Cave, the body of Floyd Collins was back on exhibition today.

The body of the explorer, who met death several years ago while exploring a cave he had discovered, was stolen from its metal glass casket yesterday, Dr. H. B. Thomas, owner of Crystal Cave, said.

He said when he and an attendant went to open the cave they found a chain on the door broken and the empty casket 100 feet away.

Blood hounds were put on the trail and, taking a scent from the coffin, ran directly to the body on the bank of the Green River, 500

ALIEN-LABOR BILL IS DEFEATED AFTER WARM SENATE FIGHT

Aigler Leads Battle
Against Measure;
Klan Accused

COLUMBUS, O., March 20.—The state senate today was still shaken by repercussions from the fight over the Clark anti-alien employment bill which went down to defeat last night.

The measure, sponsored by Senator William Clark of Champaign County, would have prohibited employment of foreigners in public work.

It was openly charged that the Ku Klux Klan was behind the bill. The fight against the measure was led by Senator Allen G. Aigler of Sandusky County, who stepped out of his official role as floor leader to wage his fight.

Aigler called upon "the sportsmanship" of the senators, asking "why legislation against all foreigners should be enacted." He then assailed the constitutionality of the bill.

Aigler finally challenged the senators to vote on the measure, as if the roll call were in secret. He drew a parallel of what Americans would think if Canada enacted a similar law.

Other opponents were Senators L. Marshall and George H. Bender of Cleveland who demanded "why the geographical location of one's birthplace should affect his ability to do a good day's work."

"Speaking as an elder of the Presbyterian Church," said Senator Bender, "I oppose this bill. I have received hundreds of letters for and none against it but I am, nevertheless, opposed to it."

The Ku Klux Klan is for this bill, I am showing you a letter on their stationery for it. It is time to show courage and shake from the back of Ohio these un-American, un-Christian organizations which parade as American and Christian bodies.

"I used to fear the pope wanted America when I was a child."

"The people of Ohio like men of courage. Let the Ohio senate do an about face and kill this bill and the spirit behind it. I do not think or believe Senator Clark is a party to those who would exploit racial hatred."

Senator Clark denied the Klan had inspired the bill.

Those voting for the bill were Anderson of Richland County; Clark of Urbana; Emmons of Akron; Farnsworth of Toledo; Gillen of Jackson; Johnson of Fulton; Kuhns of Dayton; LeFever of Athens; Martin of Cincinnati; Miller of Butler; Nickels of Tuscarawas; Rea of Madison; Rohe of Seneca; Scott of Ross and Wise of Stark.

CHAIN STORE BILL AWAITS RULING

COLUMBUS, O., March 20.—The house taxation committee today delayed final action on the Sharp bill designed to place a heavy license tax on chain stores pending a ruling by Attorney General Gilbert C. Bettman as to whether such a law would be constitutional.

Advocates and opponents of the measure were out in force last night and today for and against the bill.

The advocates heard chain stores denounced as a menace while the opponents heard the bill characterized as "un-American, discriminatory and unconstitutional."

Advocates of the bill include F. E. Dauler, of Athens, of the Shafter Wholesale Grocery Co.

MODERN PAUL REVERE

Red Cross Worker Rides Through Flood-Menaced
District Spreading Alarm.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 20.—Warned by the shouts of Edward H. Calvin, Red Cross worker, who rode through the Apalachicola Valley in an automobile, the residents of this rich cotton farming section were safe from flood waters today.

Only this warning, according to Red Cross officials, has prevented a death toll in the district. According to information reaching here from the flooded districts, this new menace from high waters is a result of the great drainage of waters of the north into creeks feeding the Apalachicola and Chattahoochee Rivers.

The crux of the flood today is at River Junction where the two rivers converge in Florida. A few miles north, is the Georgia line.

Calvin, starting from Bainbridge, drove south just ahead of the flooding waters. It is believed he is safe in one of the lower river towns.

River Junction is partly under water today. The crest is expected within the next eighteen hours. If it reaches a height to flow into the railroad yards, it is believed the water will tie up all railroads in the section as the town is a switching point.

The only other point in this section suffering from floods is Fort Gaines, Ga. Most of the residents of this town of 1500 persons have left their homes for higher ground. The Chattahoochee River, on which the village is situated, about eighty miles north of River Junction, although at high water, is not alarming, it was reported.

SLATER FOLLOWING NEW CLEW IN SEARCH FOR MISSING CHILD

WOOSTER, O., March 20.—Orla Slater, Cincinnati detective and Roy Horst, marshal of Orrville, uncle of Melvin Horst, 4, whose disappearance resulted in a three months fruitless search and the convictions of Elias and Arthur Arnold, on child stealing charges, left Wooster to follow a new clew today.

The two refused to give their destination.

The fact that Horst accompanied the Detective led followers of the investigation to believe the two have gone to see another child who is reported to resemble Melvin.

Meanwhile, hearing of a motion of a new trial for the Arnolds, convicted of child stealing has been set for Friday afternoon.

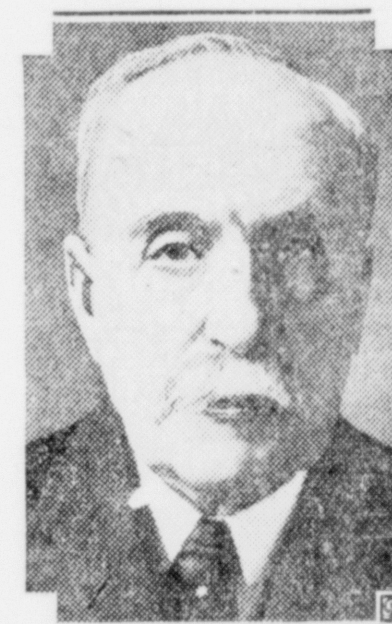

Twenty reasons why the motion should be granted are set forth in a petition filed by A. D. Metz of Wooster and Willis Horn of Orrville, attorneys for the two.

Special Prosecutor Walter J. Moughie is charged with misconduct because he took the stand as a witness for the state. The jurors, it is charged, were permitted to hear comments of spectators in a court room that "argued with desire for the Arnolds' conviction."

The petition also attacked the credibility of Junior Hannah, 8, the state's star witness, and declared that new evidence is available, disproving the Arnold's connection with the Horst boy's disappearance.

Hope that a conviction in the case would result in the boy being discovered are dying, as the two Arnolds remain silent. The elder Arnold faces a penitentiary term and his son a term in the reformatory if their pleas for a new trial are denied.

MARSHAL FOCH DIES IN PARIS

FERDINAND FOCH

PARIS, France, March 20.—Field Marshal Ferdinand Foch, supreme commander of the allied armies in the World War and probably the world's most brilliant modern military strategist, died at his home here today.

Death was due to heart trouble and complications which developed into uremia. He was seventy-seven years of age.

Foch, a kindly, religious man; a soldier asking only to be permitted to do his duty; a born leader of men; a brilliant and shrewd strategist who knew no military superior.

When called to the supreme command of the allied armies he performed his task of turning a losing fight into victory methodically and capably. History will tell how he directed the five greatest battles ever fought at the same time; how he commanded 10,000,000 men; how he outgeneraled von Hindenburg and brought the great German war machine to its knees.

Hindenburg's hordes were rolling the allies back on March 29, 1918, when Foch, once retired, was placed in supreme command. Within three weeks after the counter-offensive began, Foch had won back ground it had taken Germany four months to conquer. The battle of Chateau Thierry, the St. Mihiel sector, the final conflict in the Argonne; the hammering of the British and Belgians in Flanders and the breaking of the Hindenburg line were the high spots of Foch's career in command.

Foch was born in Pyrenees October 2, 1851. He became an artillery officer after his graduation in 1870 and won rapid promotion. Foch was in command at the outbreak of the war, but was retired in 1917, when he reached the age of 65, serving on the Supreme War Council until he was recalled to supreme command. He married in 1878 and has two daughters married to French army officers. His decorations include the American Distinguished Service Medal and the English Order of the Bath.

AUTO KILLS CHILD

PAINEVILLE, O., March 20.—Francis Szekely, 4, of Richmond Village, is dead here from injuries received when he was hit by an automobile.

PRESIDENT HOOVER AIMS ENFORCEMENT PLAN AT ALL LAWS

Will Concentrate On Prohibition With Sustained Drive

WASHINGTON, March 20.—While federal enforcement agencies are making preparations for their most supreme effort to enforce prohibition effectively, President Hoover is seeking to balance his law enforcement commission so it will deal with all laws and not single out the dry act.

President Hoover regards the enforcement of all laws as vital and is opposed to singling out the prohibition law as a special favorite of enforcement agencies. Nevertheless, the chief difficulty in the law enforcement situation arises from the prohibition laws and attention will be concentrated on that regardless of any desire President Hoover may have to prevent overpressing of his purpose to make the Volstead act effective if humanly possible. There will be no sporadic "drive" but a sustained effort lasting indefinitely.

Prohibition has become a more acute subject of discussion here than anything else, due to the general feeling Mr. Hoover is going to put the law to its supreme test.

Evidence of a tightening up are seen everywhere, from the restrictions thrown around the importation of diplomatic liquor and the preparations of the prohibition bureau for educational activities and expansion of personnel down to the new drastic padlock order of the local police department. Some federal officials who hitherto have held the Volstead act lightly, have suddenly climbed aboard the water wagon and are conspicuously turning down their glasses at parties where cocktails are served.

Hostesses who formerly understood liquor was necessary to a successful party are growing uncertain whether to serve drinks when federal officials are among the guests.

The $500,000 educational campaign now being planned by the prohibition bureau will be national in scope and has three chief objects, Assistant Treasury Secretary Seymour Lowman said today. These objects are:

"To obtain further co-operation from state officials."

"Emphasize the importance of law enforcement."

"Educate the public on what is being done."

Treasury officials believe Lowman said, the wet side of the prohibition controversy has been fully presented by the newspapers and they desire to obtain similar publicity for the dry viewpoint.

APPEAL CASES

James L. Hurley and L. O. Clemmer, Xenia dairymen, through their attorney, C. L. Darlington, have filed petitions in error in Common Pleas Court, seeking reversal of their recent convictions in Probate Court on charges of illegally refilling registered milk bottles. Three appeals were filed on behalf of Hurley and one for Clemmer.

GIRL IS MUSICAL PRODIGY

QUIZ CONVICTED CHILD STEALER IN DEATH OF YOUNG GIRL TWO YEARS AGO

OAKLAND, Calif., March 20.—Interrogation of David A. Barnett, convicted child stealer, concerning the murder of Mabel Mayer, 16, a crime as horrible as the slaying of Marion Parker by William Edward Hickman, was to start by police here today.

They talked briefly with Barnett before he was convicted for the abduction of 5-year-old Elsie Winfelt last night.

Barnett is a former resident of her into a vacant lot at night. Barnett will be sentenced tomorrow for the abduction of Elsie.

He was charged with having enticed the little girl into his car and then having molested her.

They said they intended to confront him with the circumstantial evidence that he had been molesting girls in the neighborhood of a vacant lot where Mabel was killed only a few days prior to her death, and that at the time he employed a young sweetheart of the victim.

District Attorney Earley Warren revealed that investigation of the slaying was revived when Barnett was accused of child stealing.

"We had not suspected Barnett of any wrong doing until then," Warren said. "He was a respected resident of the city and head of a mill."

"Then we received a transcript of his trial in Toledo, when he was convicted on charges of eight little girls. That, with our evidence in the Elsie kidnapping, changed our attitude toward him."

Mabel Mayer was assaulted and beaten to death by a man nearly two years ago, shortly after Marion Parker was killed. He dragged

RADIUM VICTIM

Mrs. Mildred Cardow, 22, above, Waterbury, Conn., bride of six months, died Tuesday of radium poisoning which she contracted four years ago when pointing brushes with her mouth while painting the faces of luminous watches and clocks. She is the third person to die there from the malady, for which no cure has been found.

GASOLINE TAX BILL MOVE LAUNCHED BY HOUSE RURAL BLOC

Claim Increase To Four Cents Throws Burden On Cities

COLUMBUS, O., March 20.—A concerted drive was launched in the general assembly today to force through legislation increasing the gasoline tax to four cents a gallon.

The move was backed by the rural bloc in the house and was characterized as "a step towards transferring to the 'big city' counties the entire cost of building and maintaining state highways."

The sponsors of the measure, as the house and senate were called to order, were endeavoring to enlist Governor Myers V. Cooper behind the legislation and get it rushed through as an administration measure.

Added impetus was given the drive by fears that the session may end before the bill can be put through.

Two bills to raise the tax to four cents are pending in the house, one by Dallas Sullivan, Union County, chairman of the highways committee, and the other by L. R. Bostwick, Madison County. Sullivan's bill would allot $1,500,000 of the increased revenue to county roads and Bostwick's would give one-fifth of the revenue to the townships.

Factions supporting the two bills, and who have previously not been in agreement, are understood now to be ready to compromise their differences. The question concerns

SLEEPING VICTIMS BURIED BY DEBRIS; BUILDING WRECKED

Members Of Family Escape Death In Belmont County

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., March 20.—Vandals dynamited the home of James Kunik, former United Mine Workers leader, at Brookside, Belmont County, during the night.

Four members of the family were injured slightly. They were sleeping when the blast occurred.

The house, a two-story structure, was almost wrecked.

Mrs. Kunik and her six year old twin daughters, Betty and Betsy, were buried under the debris and their escape from death was miraculous.

Henrietta, 17, another daughter, was the least injured, although she was sleeping in a front bedroom near where the blast occurred.

Plaster and wreckage hurtled down upon her bed and when she was extricated she was pinned beneath a window sill.

Kunik was at work in the Florence mine at Martins Ferry and was not notified of the blast until early today. He was expelled from the union a year ago when he attempted to persuade miners to work in eastern Ohio fields on the $5 a day basis. Later he tried to organize a new union.

The twins were cut and bruised. Mrs. Kunik, although only slightly injured, suffered from shock and was placed under the care of a physician.

OBJECTION TO ROOT NEGOTIATIONS MAY BLOCK WORLD COURT

Borah Expected To Lead
Opposition To
Adherence

WASHINGTON, Mar. 20.—American adherence to the world court is yet a long way off despite the successful conclusions of the root negotiations at Geneva, congressional authorities agreed today.

A backstage opposition to the agreement which may be led by Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee has grown up and notice has been served privately the subject cannot be squeezed into the coming short session. Action upon it therefore may await the regular session of congress beginning next December.

In the meantime any nation which is a party to the court or a member of the council of the League of Nations could thwart the whole procedure by objecting to the Root arrangement which gives the United States to right to stop any decision from the court in which it claims an interest.

Ordinarily the other nations would wait to see what action the senate takes here in accepting the Root modifications of the original reservations and if this procedure is followed the matter might not be laid before the other powers until 1930. United Press dispatches from Geneva have indicated the league council might act on the issue in June, following Root's assurances the senate is certain to accept out such action would not be conclusive until the senate acts.

An overwhelming majority of the senate appears favorable to the agreement which thus far has been only privately opposed by some of the senators who voted against the court. There are only seventeen in that category and one of them has left the senate.

Court advocates believe they could therefore force ratification of the Root agreement if they could bring it to a vote, but with even a small minority fighting their plan their program faces indefinite delay.

AMERICAN MINER
HELD BY BANDITS

MEXICO CITY, March 20.—The American embassy will make representations to the Mexican foreign office today in connection with the kidnapping of T. L. Carnahan, American mine expert of El Paso, Texas, in the state of Zacatecas.

Bandits abducted Carnahan from the Lanoria mine, near San Benito, friends of the miner reported yesterday. He presumably was held for ransom.

Bandits also kidnapped Dr. Olvera, a Mexican mine official, who is believed to be held with Carnahan.

Other mining companies in the vicinity were reported to have pending operations until authorities were able to guarantee safety to their employees.

THREE KILLED, BELIEVE MANY INJURED IN TRAIN COLLISION

PARRY SOUND, Ont., March 20.—Three persons are known dead and an unknown number injured in a head on collision between two crack passenger trains of the Canadian National Railway at Droccourt, forty-one miles north of here early today.

The known dead are: The conductor, Edward Brakeman, Brakeman Ferguson, and a newsboy unidentified.

The crash, according to reports received here, was between the Vancouver bound and the Toronto bound "Nationals," two of the fastest passenger trains in the service.

One of the cars is reported to have caught fire and grave fears were held for its occupants.

Three emergency trains, bearing doctors and nurses, started from Toronto, Sudbury and Parry Sound as soon as word of the wreck was received.

IT MEANS the clothes aren't snowy white. It means there's dirt in them. It means scum forms when you put soap in the water. And that means you're using hard water. Scum always forms in hard water.

What to do? Soften the water with Melo and it is a wonderful cleaner, with or without soap. No dirty ring forms. The clothes wash snowy white. Delightful suds. And you use only 1/2 or 1/3 the amount of soap ordinarily used in hard water. Get rid of that dirty ring! Get rid of it by buying and using Melo. Get Melo at your grocer's.

HERE'S QUEEN OF BUCCANEERS

Meet the most popular girl at Xenia Central High School. She is Miss Margaret Neeld, a senior, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Neeld, 238 N. Galloway St., who was crowned "Queen of the Buccaneers" at the "Buccaneer Hop," a dance at which members of the champion "Buccaneer" basketball squad were honor guests at the high school last Friday night.

All of the students took a vote the preceding day and the identity of the winner was disclosed during the dance intermission. Miss Neeld is editor of the Central High "Review," school weekly, and has taken a prominent part in many other school activities.

SANDUSKY, March 20.—When it comes to tracking down criminals and others who run afoul of the law, Sheriff Jack Parker of Erie County has the edge over his contemporaries.

In the first place he can cover more ground. And in double quick time. For he is known as the "Flying Sheriff." He took office January 1 and has been awaiting his chance to demonstrate how the law can be enforced in ultra-modern style.

Before his election as sheriff, Parker was engaged in a general commercial flying business with a brother, Luther Parker. He has turned the management of the venture over to his brother, but still pursues flying as a hobby.

Parker has made one promise which he hopes to fulfill soon. The first prisoner sentenced to the state penitentiary who wants to fly to his new "home," the sheriff said, "will get the chance."

Residents of Kelley's Island, eight miles from the mainland in Lake Erie, find Parker's plane to be invaluable in an emergency.

With navigation closed because of wintry blasts on the lake, no mail was delivered to the island for eleven days last month. When this delay was called to the attention of the "Flying Sheriff," he told his island deputies:

"If you want me for anything telephone and I'll fly over."

Recently Frank Riedy and John Campbell, residents of the island, came to Sandusky with the mail men. When they started to return, it was impossible to cross the lake.

Riedy appealed to Parker. "Fly us over to the island," he asked. Half an hour later the two men were home.

So pleased were the islanders with the possibility of aerial connection with the mainland that they have established a landing field.

THESE WOMEN!

"The women," smiled a local drug clerk who was wrapping up a package of safety razor blades for a customer, "have a new weapon. While it does not replace the hairpin and is less adaptable for the many uses to which that article has been put, the safety razor blade has almost become a feminine necessity."

"A woman these days does not use a scissors or knife for nipping. A safety razor blade does the job with less risk of cutting a hole in the cloth. The painter leaves dots on the windows. There was a time when these splashes caused the housewife a good bit of elbow exertion, but the razor blade takes them off with little or no effort."

SCHOOL CHILDREN MAY BE EXAMINED IN HEALTH PROGRAM

The Greene County Public Health League, it was disclosed at its meeting Tuesday night in the office of Dr. R. H. Grube, county health commissioner, has under consideration the possibility of holding a "roundup" May 3 for the purpose of examining children who will enter the first grade of school next fall.

This proposed physical examination would be held with the cooperation of P. T. A. organizations and Xenia physicians and would be followed by needed clinics if found necessary.

May Day will be observed in the city schools on that day as in the past with an appropriate program at Shawnee Park, featured by May pole dances and athletic events. While the pupils are out of the buildings, it is planned to invite parents of prospective first grade school children and also their children into the buildings.

The parents would be furnished with information they should know about the children in order that when the youngsters enter school next fall they will not be handicapped by any physical disability.

WAIT IN HOPE.—It is good that a man should both hope and quietly wait for the salvation of the Lord.—Lamentations 3:26.

NEW ERA IN PRESIDENT'S OFFICE

For a man not given to profuse public utterances and noted for his habit of attending strictly to the business in hand, President Hoover is one of the most spectacular and internationally cosmopolitan figures in public life at the present time. He has traveled extensively. He has had experiences more varied and more numerous than commonly come to the average man. He is a skilled engineer. He is something of a scientist. He is educated in many special branches. He represents intelligence applied in the highest degree to commerce—domestic and foreign—to industry, and to any group of so-called big business. There has been no president of the United States quite of his pattern and qualifications.

Accordingly, it may be said that his inauguration marks a new era in the office of the chief executive of the nation. It may even be predicted that his administration will be, in a way, epochal. Mr. Hoover is a deer—a "go-getter," to describe him in modern parlance. He has done many things and done them all well. He has accomplished a few tasks so colossal, so complicated that there has been a question as to whether they could have been so successfully surmounted by anyone else. To the great office which, by the grace of Providence, he will fill for four years he brings this inherent and specialized genius for seeing to the center of problems and getting things done.

Much is expected of Mr. Hoover and his administration. And, unless he is impeded by politicians and by opposition of powerful private interests and failed by leaders of his party beyond possibilities conceived of at this time, the most sanguine expectations of him and his administration will be fulfilled. Already there has been convincing evidence that he proposes to be president of the United States and its possessions to the utmost of the power and prerogative of the office. That this is well understood and loyally respected even among party leaders and officeholders near to him has been evinced during the formation of his cabinet. At least two powerful and popular men declined cabinet posts because, it was hinted, of their reluctance to risk clashes of opinion and being in the slightest degree responsible for possible discordance. Otherwise, too, there appears to have been manifest a reluctance to assume duties in the performance of which only the highest and sustained efficiency would have satisfied Mr. Hoover. In that connection a keen interest awaits his contact with the consular and diplomatic service. It may be confidently assumed that he has picked a cabinet which may be relied upon for team-work in carrying out his policies.

Mr. Hoover obliterated party lines and disrupted more political affiliations than any president since the Civil war, and therefore has taken office with the unusual and high distinction of having in unequal measure the good wishes and will of the American people.

If a new cabinet officer doesn't succumb to an inferiority complex the first time he meets his veteran underlings, he is a man who will stand up under every test.

Speaking of die hards, a Georgia man who has spent nine years fighting a sentence of $100 fine or 30 days in jail has at last begun to serve the term.

The detectives who are solving the St. Valentine's day massacre in Chicago must be the same ones that cleared up the Rothstein case in New York so handily.

NEW YORK—She is a young English actress, and her mother was her companion everywhere. Mater also arranged all bookings so that her little girl would not have to come into contact with the wicked theatrical producers in their offices, and stage-door Johnnies were given the chill in the couple's mad dash from the theatre after the performance.

Then the lass decided to come to New York. Her mother, who wouldn't chance a sea voyage, finally consented to permit the girl to go alone, but only after she exacted her oath that she would never appear in any production that might damage her good name.

"What ever you do," counseled mamma, "do not join any musical where they have those foul sketched bizzones to sign his name in his album." The mayor complied, and turned to talk with the honored guest.

So Walker panned: "To a damned nuisance!"

The reporter who grew whiskers in the winter to keep warm.

Burton Rascoe applying at the Trib for a job as University of Chicago representative. And hired by Walter A. Washburn, who never went to school but is now professor in a school of journalism.

Jack Lawson of the Trib, who was found dead at the bottom of the elevator shaft in the old Press Club on North Dearborn Street after exposing quick doctors. And the fortune spent by his paper in a futile attempt to track down murder clues.

The Way of the World

BY GROVE PATTERSON

PITY

One of the strongest and most beautiful characteristics of Abraham Lincoln was his never-failing capacity for pity. When men made mistakes he did not "fly off the handle." He was not quick to criticize or condemn. He seemed always to feel sorry for the men who had made a mistake. He seemed to feel the same way about all humanity. He looked upon the difficult struggles and the poor blunders of folks with the eyes of understanding and with pity.

How much we all need that lesson of Lincoln! Especially in dealing with young people we need pity. We need forbearance in blunders and in misdeeds—remembering our own weaknesses and our own failures.

BUYING BOOKS

Don't hesitate to buy books, if you can afford them, even if you know you are going to have little time to read. You have made no mistake in buying a good book, if you never read it. No man can live in and around books without being influenced and changed by them. Books on every table, near every chair, on the table at your bedside—books on every shelf—you absorb from books. You are a different sort of person because of the nearness of good books. You are in association with the greatest thoughts of all time. With books ever near, you are bound to read a little, if only fifteen minutes a day. And fifteen minutes each day given to solid reading will make a powerful change in any man in one year.

Try, for example, fifteen minutes a day with "The Outline of Man's Knowledge," by Clement Wood.

WITHIN HIMSELF

In 1832 Ralph Waldo Emerson went abroad. He traveled to the lonely farm house in Craigmartock in Scotland in which Carlyle lived. There began a life-long friendship. On his way home Emerson wrote in his diary these words: "A man contains all that is needed for his government within himself. All real good or evil that can befall him must be from himself. The purpose of life seems to be to acquaint man with himself. The highest revelation is that God is in every man."

BILL BEING DRAFTED TO REORGANIZE FEDERAL DEPARTMENT

By WILLIAM WILLIAMSON, JR., Congressman from South Dakota. (William Williamson, Jr., was born in Mahaska county, Iowa, Oct. 7, 1875. He is graduate of the University of South Dakota. With his brother he founded two weekly newspapers in 1903 and 1904 and a hardware company in 1906. From 1905 to 1911 he was state's attorney in South Dakota, then circuit judge of the Eleventh judicial district until 1912. He was a delegate to the Republican national convention in 1912. He has been a member of congress from the Third South Dakota district since 1921.)

The first step in the proposed reorganization of the departments and bureaus of the federal government may be taken at the session of the seventy-first congress to be convened April 15.

I expect to spend my entire time on reorganization problems, and there is to be an early reorganization of the executive departments it will be necessary to set up the committee for functioning during the coming extra session. The committee has practically in mind for the extra session the bill to consolidate the activities relating to veterans' bureau, the bureau of pensions and the branch national homes for disabled volunteer soldiers.

I personally think that the prohibition service ought to be transferred to the department of justice.

The department of justice is charged with the enforcement of law and I do not think—speaking for myself alone and not for the committee—that prohibition enforcement should be treated any differently than any other enforcement of law.

If there is to be early reorganization of the executive departments of the government, it will be necessary to organize this committee in the committee set-up of the extra session. I am expecting to have a bill regarding the consolidation of the veterans activities ready for consideration at the extra session.

My present plan is to consolidate all these activities in the veterans' bureau.

Other matters, to be taken up at the regular session of congress next December, will be the further consideration of the advisory committee of the executive departments.

Presidential appointments are not valid until the senate says so. Most presidents have regarded the senators as the legislators whom it best paid them to cultivate.

There are sound reasons for this view. Then senate can make life harder for the president than the house of representative can.

Presidential appointments are not valid until the senate says so. Most presidents have regarded the senators as the legislators whom it best paid them to cultivate.

That President Hoover considers the representatives' friendship worth more to him than the senators' is by no means explicitly announced and it never will be.

Nevertheless, the impression prevails on Capitol Hill that it is the way Mr. Hoover feels about it.

ARMS AND THE WOMAN

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MRS. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Beauty's place in the trousseau is an important matter. Indeed, one that has always interested me. For I have helped countless lovely brides to prepare for their wedding events. And I should like to help as many more throughout the country, whom I cannot meet in person, to be radiant with loveliness upon their wedding day and afterward, as every woman can and should be.

Her beauty problem is easy and pleasant, but not so easy or pleasant that it may be ignored or forgotten. The bride should remember beauty care among all the wedding preparations as one that will contribute more, perhaps, than any other to the happiness of her wedding hour and the honeymoon days that follow. A bride should be beautiful—it is expected of her. And she never wants to be less so.

Many a bride has come to me with violet circles under her eyes and a mouth drooping in weariness to find a "quick" way to restore her appearance to its customary freshness. There are marvelous, quick rejuvenating treatments for erasing the signs of nerves and exhaustion, but the wisest procedure is not to let them come at all.

The bride who gets plenty of beauty sleep, who refuses to worry about anything, however important it seems, who eats wisely and at regular hours, and takes religious care of her skin, eyes and hair, will find that she has in her fundamental self the surest source of beauty and happiness—health.

On this foundation she can build successfully the outward artistic effects that she wishes. She may wear wedding dress and veil with the same assurance that she does her traveling clothes and negligees, her bathing costume or riding habit. Wherever her honeymoon takes her she will be adequate and ready for the happiness of the day.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—Senators are green-eyed with jealousy at the hint that President Hoover's relations with the representatives' chamber may be closer than with the upper house of congress.

Most presidents have regarded the senators as the legislators whom it best paid them to cultivate.

There are sound reasons for this view. Then senate can make life harder for the president than the house of representative can.

Presidential appointments are not valid until the senate says so. Most presidents have regarded the senators as the legislators whom it best paid them to cultivate.

That President Hoover considers the representatives' friendship worth more to him than the senators' is by no means explicitly announced and it never will be.

Nevertheless, the impression prevails on Capitol Hill that it is the way Mr. Hoover feels about it.

Maybe he has learned something from Mr. Coolidge's experience.

His own party leaders never wanted Mr. Coolidge for president. Mr. Hoover also was far from being their choice.

The party's biggest leaders, mainly in the senate, Mr. Coolidge could have selected them by

For instance, it can act on his advice in the matter of appointments, and enable him to build up a strong machine—useful to him and the administration, too. To be sure, theoretically, the senate can reject these appointments, but in actual practice it can reject only once in a long time, or it stirs up a worse row than the senators themselves can afford.

It is a new idea—a combination between the administration and the house of representatives against the senate, all inside the same party; and it may give the senators more to worry about than they have had to harass them under the Coolidge regime.

The thought is an upsetting one to the senators who linger in Washington, awaiting the extra session.

They hardly know whether to fight or compromise.

Incidentally, note the training of the mining engineer coming to the surface in Mr. Hoover. When you encounter a rock too big to handle, simply crack it asunder.

MENU HINT
Scalloped Ham with Potatoes
Carrot, Apple, Cabbage Salad
Corn Pudding Prune Whip

Today's Recipes
—Scalloped Ham with Potatoes—
One-half pound ham, cut in sliced pieces, pepper, one cup sliced raw potatoes, two quart milk. Arrange the potatoes and the ham in layers in a buttered baking dish, sprinkling each layer with pepper. Add the milk and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) until the potatoes are tender. If necessary add more milk. Raw ham or self-cured cooked ham may be used in this recipe.

Corn Pudding.—Three cups grated corn, two eggs, one teaspoon salt, pepper, one tablespoon melted fat, one pint milk. Beat the eggs slightly, add the other ingredients and pour into a greased baking dish. Bake in a slow oven (300 degrees Fahrenheit) until firm. Chopped green pepper may be added if desired.

Suggestions
—Soiled Clothes Bag—
A handy soiled-clothes bag for the closet, door is made of a yard and a half of tan linen crash; double it, face the ends with colored satin, three inches deep, seam the sides, cut a six-inch slit in one side near the top and bind with the color. Then stitch across edge, and again an inch below that, then run a rod through, fasten a satin ribbon hanger-loop of the same color as the facing. The double facing will ruffle above the rod which makes it very pretty in appearance. The front may be decorated with outline double stitching in the color of the edging. They are easily made, and can be stitched with outline work very quickly. Splendid for soiled towels is a bag made in the same way, but of Turkish toweling. It can be hung in the bath room. Sometimes a very large towel is selected for the purpose and the border forms the colored trimming. A bamboo rod is used instead of a metal rod that might cause the slit cut in the front to rust or mark the towels. In this bond with white or colored tape to match the border.

Peanut Milk Toast
Toast bread and make a white sauce. When both are hot, spread the toast with peanut butter and pour the white sauce over it.

Diet and Health

CANCER POSSIBILITIES
"My father has a small sore on his right ear, at the tip of the top side. It started about a year ago and hasn't gone off yet. Sometimes it is sore and sometimes he doesn't notice it. He won't go to a doctor and I have done everything I could. He puts some mercuriochrome on it and adhesive tape. Could it be a cancer or turn into one? I am worried about it, but he doesn't seem to be."
"MISS H."

I regret to tell you, Miss H., that a sore of that duration, especially around the head of an elderly person, is most likely a cancer already. Your father should go to a skin specialist or surgeon immediately for treatment. Of course, he has had this for a long time and the conditions are not so favorable as they would have been had he had it treated the moment he knew it wasn't an ordinary sore (which he should have known from the fact that it did not get well in a reasonable time). These skin cancers are very successfully treated with radium or X-ray, and sometimes other agencies.

"About six weeks ago I weighed 235. I am five feet nine inches tall, so you know I was no slyph. I began the liquid diet and on the first and second day my head ached so I could not eat anything. At the end of the week, I lost 11 pounds. I went on 1200 C. for two weeks, but as I lost three pounds a week, I changed to 1300 to 1400 and have been eating on that number! I weigh 214 now, so still have a long way to go. I feel so much better! Our food bills are good and everything tastes good. Counting calories is interesting, I think, I feel so well. I certainly thank you for the system."
"MRS. C."

Your experience shows many of the advantages of reducing. Thanks for letting us know of them, Mrs. C.

If you go on the three-day liquid diet and have a slice of toast for breakfast, if that doesn't make it stop, have your 800 or 900 C. in solid foods instead.

Living and Loving

BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

Young people seldom like to go to school and even at college think that the grind of study is hard to bear. A writer recently said that youth was the time for fun and romance and age for study and hard work, but the order is reversed in this world.

Parents occasionally forget that they liked good times when they were young, and expect their offspring to just love study and hard work and to cut out the nonsense. Pretty hard on the youngsters when this happens, as one of them complains in the following letter:

"Dear Virginia Lee: I am coming to you for advice because you seem to always give me good advice. I am a senior in high school and 17 years of age. Do you think I am old enough to go with the boys? I have to turn down my most intimate boy friends on my father's account. Please don't tell me to take the matter up with him, because I can't. I like him very much because he is so strict. He seems to be afraid I am going to 'grow up.' I don't care for steady company and have no intention of marrying until I have finished college and taught school some. He knows these are my plans."
"A READER"

I'm sure I don't know what to tell you my dear. As your father is dependent on your father for your maintenance, and expect to go to college, you can't disregard his wishes. If you go away from home next year that will solve your problem, won't it? He can't forbid your having friends at school. None of the boys would dare come to the house, I suppose, and make friends with him? If they would, that would be an opening wedge.

BROKEN HEARTED. Heart-aches and Blue Eyes: Your problems are all the same. Be your most charming selves, and if that won't win the boy friend, you must just make the best of it, I am afraid.

TOOTS AND BOOTS: Leave them, girls.

Peter's Adventures

BY MRS. FLORENCE SAITH VINCENT

Mr. Drake, Weather Prophet
Drake looked scornfully at Peter.

"Oh, is that so?" demanded he. "No storm coming! Then you don't use your eyes as well as I thought you did. You think the sky is just as clear as it has been! What about that dull gray streak across it—way off just as far as you can see? Watch it for awhile and you will find out that it is growing darker and wider every minute."

"And the wind is no stronger? Let you know about it! What about those little ridges along the surface of the water? They were not there an hour ago. The surface of the pool was then as smooth and clear as a piece of glass! What do you suppose is the cause of that? The wind, of course; it is making the water so angry that by and by it can keep its temper no longer and will foam and bubble and lash itself into fury, thinking all the time it is fighting the wind, but really and truly making things harder for itself."

"Perhaps you have not noticed, either, young Two-Legs, that that water close to the bank is freezing. To be sure it is now so thin that a field mouse would be afraid to trust its feet upon it but it means that Jack Frost is close upon his track and hurrying his dreaded companions, Snow and Ice. A pond is no place for those fellows to catch a duck. So water is the only place the car affords to let cold weather overtake him." The boy was somewhat puzzled by Drake's last remark.

"If you are so afraid of cold weather overtaking you on the pond why in the world do you start straight for the sea? Why don't you keep away from the water altogether—fly inland for instance, and find a warm home in the woods?"

Drake turned around and stared at the boy, and the bird looked very scornful indeed.

"Are you crazy, boy?" asked he. "Fly inland, indeed! Don't you know that we Ducks would die if we could not be in the water?"

"It is all very well to make a visit to the land or even to sail through the air for a while, but when it comes to living—the water for us."

"I should think that you would guess why we leave the pond for the sea. The fresh water freezes but the salt water does not, and when we are tired of tooting about on the waves we may rest in the shallows, unafraid—quite out of the reach of all danger from either sea or land—all winter long if we wish. Say, boy, do my eyes deceive me, or is there something flying this way?"

"I see a speck in the sky," cried the boy, looking in the direction in which Drake was pointing, and I think—yes, I am sure—that speck is moving."

Next: "Ali Safe With the flock from the Frozen North."

Other matters, to be taken up at the regular session of congress next December, will be the further consideration of the engineering activities of the executive branch of the government.

White Spots.

To remove white spots caused by heat on lacquer or mahogany finish, use warm camphorated oil applied with a soft flannel cloth. Finish with a vigorous rubbing to restore the polish. This remedy is particularly useful in keeping such pieces as the tea wagon dining table and serving table in good condition.

ARMS AND THE WOMAN

CARRY YOU OVER MAM?

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Beauty's place in the troupe of every successful beauty treatment.

Yet the bride must not count too much upon this wonderful magic. The helpful excitement it furnishes may carry her through the important moments, but a few wise precautions are necessary to supplement it, to provide its unchanging background, and to preserve the fundamental loveliness that should be hers at any time.

Especially should she take care of her looks in the days that precede the wedding—those exhausting days of shopping and fittings and parties. Fatigue and nervousness, two foes of feminine good looks, follow closely in their wake.

Many a bride has come to me with violet circles under her eyes and a mouth drooping in weariness to find a "quick" way to restore her appearance to its customary freshness. There are marvelous, quick rejuvenating treatments for erasing the signs of nerves and exhaustion, but the wisest procedure is not to let them come at all.

The bride who gets plenty of beauty sleep, who refuses to worry about anything, however important it seems, who eats wisely and at regular hours, and takes religious care of her skin, eyes and hair, will find that she has in her fundamental self the surest source of beauty and happiness—health.

On this foundation she can build successfully the outward artistic effects that she wishes. She may wear wedding dress and veil with the same assurance that she does her traveling clothes and negligees, her bathing costume or riding habit. Wherever her honeymoon takes her she will be adequate and ready for the happiness of the day.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—Senators are green-eyed with jealousy at the hint that President Hoover's relations with the representatives' chamber may be closer than with the upper house of congress.

Most presidents have regarded the senators as the legislators whom it best paid them to cultivate.

There are sound reasons for this view. Then senate can make life harder for the president than the house of representatives can.

Presidential appointments are not valid until the senate says so. Treaties made by the president require the senate's o. k. The White House has to ask no such favors of the representatives.

That President Hoover considers the representatives' friendship worth more to him than the senators' is by no means explicitly announced and it never will be.

Nevertheless, the impression prevails on Capitol Hill that this is the way Mr. Hoover feels about it.

Maybe he has learned something from Mr. Coolidge's experience.

His own party leaders never wanted Mr. Coolidge for president. Mr. Hoover also was far from being their choice.

The party's biggest leaders are mainly in the senate. Mr. Coolidge could have placated them by

For instance, it can act on his advice in the matter of appointments, and enable him to build up a strong machine useful to him and the administration, too.

To be sure, theoretically, the senate can reject these appointments, but in actual practice it can reject only once in a long time, or it stirs up a worse row than the senators themselves can afford.

It is a new idea—a combination between the administration and the house of representatives—against the senate, all inside the same party; and it may give the senators more to worry about than ever they have had to harass them under the Coolidge regime.

The thought is an upsetting one to the senators who linger in Washington, awaiting the extra session.

They hardly know whether to fight or compromise.

Incidentally, note the training of the mining engineer coming to the surface in Mr. Hoover. When you encounter a rock too big to handle, simply crack it asunder.

MENU HINT

Scalloped Ham with Potatoes, Carrot, Apple, Cabbage Salad, Corn Pudding, Prune Whip, Tea

One-half pound ham, cut in inch pieces, pepper, one quart sliced raw potatoes, two cups milk. Arrange the potatoes and the ham in layers in a buttered baking dish, sprinkling each layer with pepper. Add the milk and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) until the potatoes are tender. If necessary add more milk. Raw ham or leftover cooked ham may be used in this recipe.

Corn Pudding.—Three cups grated corn, two eggs, one teaspoon salt, pepper, one tablespoon melted fat, one pint milk. Beat the eggs slightly, add the other ingredients and pour into a greased baking dish. Bake in a slow oven (260 degrees Fahrenheit) until firm. Chopped green pepper may be added if desired.

Suggestions

Soiled Clothes Bag

A handy soiled-clothes bag for the closet door is made of a yard and a half of tan linen crash; double it, face the ends with colored satin, three inches deep, seam the sides, cut a six-inch slit in one side near the top and end with the color. Then stitch across the top, three inches from the edge, and again an inch below that, then run a red thread, fasten a satin ribbon hanger-loop, of the same color as the facing. The double facing will ruffle above the red which makes it very pretty in appearance. The front may be decorated with outline double rings stitched in the color of the trimming. They are easily marked with the end of a big needle and very quickly. Splendid for soiled towels is a bag made in the same way, but of Turkish toweling. It can be hung in the bath room. Sometimes a very large towel is selected for the purpose and the border forms the colored trimming. A bamboo rod is used instead of a metal rod that might case the slit cut in the front is rust or mark the towels. In this bound with white or colored tape to match the border.

Diet and Health

BY LULU HUNT PETERS, M.D., AUTHOR OF "DIET AND HEALTH" AND "DIET FOR CHILDREN"

CANCER POSSIBILITIES

My father has a small sore on his right ear, at the tip of the top ear, it started about a year ago and hasn't gone off yet. Sometimes it is sore and sometimes he doesn't notice it. He won't go to a doctor and I have done everything I could. He puts some mercuriochrome on it and adhesive tape. Could it be a cancer or turn into one? I am worried about it, but he doesn't seem to be.

"MISS H."

I regret to tell you, Miss H., that a sore of that duration, especially around the head of an elderly person, is most likely a cancer already. Your father should go to a skin specialist or surgeon immediately for treatment. Of course, he has had this for a long time and the conditions are not so favorable as they would have been had he had it treated the moment he knew it wasn't an ordinary sore (which he should have known from the fact that it did not get well in a reasonable time). These skin cancers are very successfully treated with radium or X-rays, and sometimes other agencies.

"About six weeks ago I weighed 235, I am five feet nine inches tall, so you know I was no sylph. I began the liquid diet and on the first and second day my head ached so I could not eat anything. At the end of the week, I lost 11 pounds. I went on 1200 C. for two weeks, but as I lost three pounds a week, I changed to 1300 to 1400 and have been eating on that number! I weigh 214 now, so still have a long way to go. I feel so much better! Our food bills are much lower and everything tastes good to me. Counting calories is interesting, I think. I feel so well, I certainly thank you for the system."

"MRS. C."

Your experience shows many of the advantages of reducing. Thanks for letting us know of them, Mrs. C.

If you go on the three-day liquid diet and have a headache the second day, have a slice of toast for breakfast. If that doesn't make it stop, have your 800 or 900 C. in solid foods instead of liquids. You will get your results just the same if you limit your calories.

The reason you can have so many calories, Mrs. C., is that you are tall. A tall person needs very much more food than a short person of the same activities, and naturally can reduce on a higher number.

Yes, saving on the food bill is considerable. I have a friend who couldn't afford to take a course in ceramics, but in a short time she had saved enough on her food bills so that she had the price of the course.

The instructions which Mrs. C. is following are contained in a pamphlet on the subject, which can be obtained by following column rules.

G.—The U. S. public health service gets out many pamphlets relating to health, sanitation, etc. If you will write to the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., and ask for price list Health, Diseases, Drugs and Sanitation, you can then send for those pamphlets that interest you.

Mrs. A.—A sore mouth can be due to many causes, such as specific infections, excessive smoking or candy eating, an unbalanced diet, especially one deficient in the anti-scurvy vitamins, and too high in the acid-forming elements, ill fitting plates, rough teeth, etc. You must see your doctor at once to find the cause and so get correct treatment.

Tomorrow: "Answers to Mothers."

Editor's Note: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose, nor give personal advice. Your questions, if of general interest, will be answered in the column, in turn. Requests for articles must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope and 2 cents in coin for each article, to cover cost of printing and handling. For the pamphlet on reducing and gaining, 10 cents in coin, with fully self-addressed, stamped envelope, must be enclosed. Address Dr. Peters, in care of this paper.

Living and Loving

BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

Young people seldom like to go to school and even at college think that the grind of study is hard to bear. A writer recently said that youth was the time for fun and romance and age for study and hard work, but the order is reversed in this world.

Parents occasionally forget that they liked good times when they were young, and expect their offspring to just love study and hard work and to cut out the nonsense. Pretty hard on the youngsters when this happens, as one of them complains in the following letter:

"Dear Virginia Lee: I am coming to you for advice because you seem to always ease other girls' hearts and perhaps you can mine. I am a senior in high school and 17 years of age. Do you think I am old enough to go with the boys? I have to turn down my most intimate boy friends on my father's account. Please don't tell me to take the matter up with him, because I can't. I am really afraid of him in matters like this because he is so strict. He seems to be afraid I am going to 'grow up.' I don't care for steady company and have no intention of marrying until I have finished college and taught school some time. He knows there are my plans."

"A READER."

I'm sure I don't know what to tell you, my dear. As long as you are dependent on your father for your maintenance, and expect to go to college, you can't disregard his wishes. If you go away from home next year, what will solve your problem, won't it? He can't forbid your having friends at school. None of the boys would dare come to the house, I suppose, and make friends with him? If they would, that would be an opening wedge.

By the way, I am

married woman of 31 and have three children. Until the last five years we got along fine and my husband never went out and left me alone. Now he never spends more than one evening home a week. I get lonesome and blue. I work hard and help him with his work. Other women are all he can talk about. He never gives me credit for anything. I can't love him as I should under the circumstances. But I can't stand it much longer. I can't do justice to the children because I haven't the heart to do anything, I am so unhappy. Please give me some advice. "S. O. B."

I do not have room for all your letter, but I think I have printed enough to state your case. What can a woman do with three small children to care for, when her husband treats her so? If you had parents who were willing to take you in you could leave. But that hardly seems fair. The only thing you can do is to take care of the babies and the house the very best you can, and hope your husband will come to his senses in time. Many women have a period such as this to go through with. Mothers can't be choosers. If he goes too bad you could secure a divorce, but it would be pretty hard for you to care for the little ones alone. Try to make the home as happy as you can for them, and trust that time will straighten out your problem.

BROKEN HEARTED. Heart-aches and Blue Eyes: Your problems are all the same. Be your most charming selves, and if that won't win the boy friend, you must just make the best of it. I am afraid.

TOOTS AND BOOTS: Leave them, girls.

Peter's Adventures

BY MRS. FLORENCE E. VINCENT

Mr. Drake, Weather Prophet

Drake looked scornfully at Peter.

"Oh, is that so?" demanded he. "No storm coming! Then you don't see your eyes as well as I thought you did. You think the sky is just as clear as it has been! What about that dull gray streak across it—way off just as far as you can see? Watch it for awhile and you will find out that it is growing darker and wider every minute."

"And the wind is no stronger? Let you know about it?" asked he. "Fly inland, indeed! Don't you know that we Ducks would die if we could not be in the water?"

Drake turned around and stared at the boy, and the bird looked very scornful indeed.

"Are you crazy, boy?" asked he. "Fly inland, indeed! Don't you know that we Ducks would die if we could not be in the water?"

"It is all very well to make a visit to the land or even to sail through the air for a while, but when it comes to living—the water for us."

"I should think that you would guess why we leave the pond for the sea. The fresh water freezes but the salt water does not, and when we are tired of posing about on the waves we may rest in the shoals, unafraid—quite out of the reach of all danger from enemy sea or land—all winter long. We are safe, boy, do you see? We deceive me, or is there something flying this way?"

"I see a speck in the sky," cried the boy, looking in the direction in which Drake was pointing. "And I think—yes, I am sure—that speck is moving."

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED
by Phil

It begins to look like Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight champion, was not so dumb when he picked Tom Heene, the New Zealander, out of all the available heavyweights, to fight in his last public appearance before giving up the ring for matrimony.

Heene was a set-up for Gene and now more than anytime sizes up like anything but the "Hard Rock from Down Under," as they called him. Tom, in fact, still bearing the marks of his recent drubbing by Otto Von Porat, is almost ready to break down and confess that he was never cut out to be heavyweight champion of the world.

The heavyweight situation is muddled enough just now, but in view of Heene's recent defeats at the hands of Von Porat and Jimmy Maloney, it would be ridiculous to declare him as one of the finalists in the battle for Tunney's crown, simply because he was the last man to face the former champion in the ring.

The severe beatings given Tom by Von Porat and Maloney, both second raters, took all the starch out of a recent claim by Charley Harvey, popular little manager of the erstwhile "Hard Rock," who went on to say that his client was entitled to the title on the grounds he was the logical successor in view of Gene's retirement. Harvey also wanted to match Heene with Dempsey without the process of having Tom battle his way through another heavyweight elimination tournament, asserting Heene was superior to second raters.

You have to hand it to the New Zealander for one thing, however. No one will deny that he has courage. There is a stubborn streak in the Celt and he vows that he will keep trying until he has won his way to the top of his rank. That in spite of the fact he is ten pounds overweight and offers a mark for any left hand in the game.

The roller skating craze has taken Antioch College students by storm, partly because of an edict from the physical educational department. Everybody's doing it at the college and the concrete tennis courts there are in use all the time.

Victor Kolb, former Xenia Central High School coach for three years, was a visitor here Tuesday. He is plugging away at Ohio State in the role of a prospective physician and faces four more years of hard study with the prospect of taking a course at Chicago, Ill., this summer.

Speaking of courage, that is a factor that will play a leading role Friday when the Grand National Steeplechase is run at Aintree, England. Both horses and men will need it since the course is more than four miles in length and its obstacles are high, wide and dangerous to say the least. Last year every starter but one in a record field fell before reaching the finish and out of an average field of thirty starters, it is seldom that more than two or three finish a race.

INSTEAD of exercise

Here's good news for the busy men and women who haven't time to take regular exercise. Millions have already learned how to keep fit with the little exerciser in the vest-pocket box for a dime. Cascarets make bilious, head-achy, constipated people, feel fine. Their effect is not only quick but it's lasting. They give the bowels as much real exercise as you get from an hour's bowling.

Oils, salts and ordinary laxatives don't act like Cascarets. They actually weaken your bowels. Each time you use Cascarets, your bowels become stronger. Ask your doctor. He knows they are made from Cascara Sagrada, which stimulates the peristaltic action and strengthens the bowel muscles. That's why Cascarets are selling at the rate of 20 million packages a year!

League Tennis Matches Booked By Central

MATCHES ARRANGED WITH MIAMISBURG AND TROY HIGH TEAM

Team Enters League
Tennis Tourney At
Piqua

With two home-and-home matches arranged with Miami Valley League opponents and plans completed to climax the season with a tournament at Piqua Saturday, May 18 to decide the league singles and doubles championships, prospective candidates for Xenia Central High School's tennis team this spring are awaiting favorable weather in order to start practice.

All of the six schools comprising the league expect to be represented by tennis teams this season. Xenia racket wielders will play home-and-home matches with Miamisburg and Troy. The Buccaneers tennis team will play at Miamisburg April 19 and the Burgers will come here for a return match April 26. Troy will appear here for a match May 3 and the Bucs will then return the compliment by going to Troy, May 8.

Two singles and one doubles match will be played by the league teams. The Miamisburg matches will start after school at 4 o'clock and the Troy matches about 3 o'clock with a member of the faculty acting as referee.

Arrangements for the league tennis tourney at Piqua are also complete and the drawings have already been made.

The preliminary singles matches will be played in the morning and the doubles in the afternoon. The semi-finals and finals in the singles and doubles events will be played at a later date not yet decided upon.

In the first round in the singles Xenia meets Troy and Greenville plays Sidney at 9 a. m. The winners meet at 11 a. m. In the same bracket, Miamisburg and Piqua meet at 11 a. m., having drawn first round byes.

In the lower bracket, the other singles representatives of the six schools perform. Piqua and Miamisburg singles players meet at 10 a. m. and Xenia and Troy again at the same hour. Sidney and Greenville, having drawn byes, will meet at 12 m. as will the winners of the Piqua-Miamisburg and Xenia-Troy matches at the same hour.

That brings the singles tourney up to the semifinals.

In the doubles, Xenia drew a bye in the upper bracket and its two-man team will get into action at 4 p. m. against the winner of the Piqua-Greenville match, scheduled for 3 p. m. Sidney drew a bye in the lower bracket and will play also at 4 p. m. against the winner of the Miamisburg-Troy match, scheduled for 3 p. m.

In all regular season and tournament matches, the winner will be determined by victories in two out of three sets.

CHILD BURNED TO DEATH WHEN DOGS THWART RESCUERS

Two vicious dogs which drove a would-be rescuer away from the home prevented attempts to save the life of Donald Kellam, 1-year-old child of Edward Kellam, Richmond, Ind., who was burned to death Monday night at the Kellam home on the Boston Pike, two miles south of that city.

Kellam is employed by the Richmond, Ind., branch of The E. J. Co., Xenia wholesale grocery firm.

The mother of the child was absent from the house when the fire broke out. Charles Nicholson, passerby, saw the flames and tried to enter the home but was driven away by two vicious dogs. After several unsuccessful attempts to enter, Nicholson turned in a fire alarm.

Meanwhile Mrs. Kellam arrived home and it was not until then that the neighbors realized the child was in peril. Mrs. Kellam risked her life in a vain attempt to reach her boy, whose charred body was taken from the ruins some time after firemen had extinguished the blaze.

Bowling
By winning one of its remaining nine games, the champion Greene County Lumber Co. bowling quintet can clinch the championship of the Recreation League beyond any mathematical doubt. It is a foregone conclusion the champions will win the title for the second consecutive season as they hold a nine-game lead over the Red Wings.

Tuesday night, however, the league-leaders passed up a chance to clinch the title three weeks in advance when they lost two out of three games to the Lang Chevrolet Co. Cox led the winners with a 581 series. Dice topped the losers with 546. Box scores:

RUHLMAN LOSES AS LARGE DANCE HALL DESTROYED BY FIRE

High G. Ruhlman, former Xenian, who had the second or main floor of the building under a lease as a dance hall for a number of years, was a heavy loser as a result of the fire which destroyed the Palace Gardens dance hall at Zanesville, O., Monday with a loss estimated at $150,000 partly covered by insurance.

While his loss in office furniture, fixtures, etc., was heavy, Ruhlman saved $750. He was using an electric organ from Moxahala Park, as music for skaters at the garden. A Masonic Grotto exhibition was scheduled to open that night in the dance hall and by getting it out ahead of the Grotto show, Ruhlman returned the organ to the park.

WHEN EQUINOX COMES SPRING IS HIGH

Well, a bunch of us boys are going to sit up Wednesday night to see the vernal equinox perform its annual phenomena and if you are interested in things like that you are invited to bring a box of crackers and come along.

Our club has practically given up playing flinch lately, on account of everyone getting interested in Commander Byrd and his expedition and other scientific subjects. That's why the vernal equinox is crowding Greta Garbo for popularity with us boys now.

It seems that the axis of the earth, if you are interested in technical things like that, is at right angles to the direction of the sun Wednesday night and that gives an opening for the vernal equinox to come through and do its stuff. The tilt of the earth causes the sun to pass the equator on its way north and that means that spring is here and you all know what spring means. Well if you don't, it means that summer is coming and summer always get a big play from us boys.

The sun is due to pass the equator at 9:35 p. m., but the book doesn't say why the sun should stay up that late at night just to pass the equator but maybe it's staying up to try to get station KDKA, for all you boys know.

Anyway, if you don't read this piece until Thursday, why then, spring will already be here and maybe it will be just as well that you didn't read it, anyway, because us boys are kind of exclusive.

Mrs. Steele Says of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Pratt, W. Va.—"I was so weak and nervous that I was in bed most all the time and couldn't sit up and I am only 30 years old. I saw your advertisement in a magazine and after I had taken three doses of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I could feel that I was better. After taking two bottles I began doing my work and I feel like a new woman. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends and say it will do all it claims to do and more. I will gladly answer all letters I receive."—MRS. S. E. STEELE, Pratt, W. Va.

FRAMED
by Phil

It begins to look like Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight champion, was not so dumb when he picked Tom Heene, the New Zealander, out of all the available heavyweights, to fight in his last public appearance before giving up the ring for matrimony.

Heene was a set-up for Gene and now more than anytime sized up like anything but the "Hard Rock from Down Under," as they called him. Tom, in fact, still bearing the marks of his recent drubbing by Otto Von Porat, is almost ready to break down and confess that he was never cut out to be heavyweight champion of the world.

The heavyweights situation is muddled enough just now but in view of Heene's recent defeats at the hands of Von Porat and Jimmy Maloney, it would be ridiculous to declare him as one of the finalists in the battle for Tunney's crown, simply because he was the last man to face the former champion in the ring.

The severe beatings given Tom by Von Porat and Maloney, both second raters, took all the starch out of a recent claim by Charley Harvey, popular little manager of the erstwhile "Hard Rock," who went on to say that his client was entitled to the title on the grounds he was the logical successor in view of Gene's retirement. Harvey also wanted to match Heene with Dempsey without the process of having Tom battle his way through another heavyweight elimination tournament, asserting Heene was superior to second raters.

You have to hand it to the New Zealander for one thing, however. No one will deny that he has courage. There is a stubborn streak in the Celt and he vows that he will keep trying until he has won his way to the top of his rank. That in spite of the fact he is ten pounds overweight and offers a mark for any left hand in the game.

The Reserve baseball team is getting set for another successful season and cold weather is the only thing that has deferred practice. If announcements are correct, the team to be put on the field will be practically intact from last year. It was thought possible that to filling various positions, but it seems not. Sorry, you know, the club was just out of them, so every thing is about ready for the opening of the season April 21.

The roller skating craze has taken Antioch College students by storm, partly because of an edict from the postgraduate department. Everybody's doing it at the college and the concrete tennis courts there are in use all the time.

Victor Kolb, former Xenia Central High School coach for three years, was a visitor here Tuesday. He is playing at Ohio State in the role of a prospective physician and faces four more years of hard study with the prospect of taking a course at Chicago, Ill., this summer.

Speaking of courage, that is a factor that will play a leading role Friday when the Grand National Steeplechase is run at Antioch, England. Both horses and men will need it since the course is more than four miles in length and its obstacles are high, wide and dangerous to say the least. Last year every starter but one, a record field fell before reaching the finish and out of an average field of thirty starters, it is seldom that more than two or three finish a race.

Two vicious dogs which drove a would-be rescuer away from the home prevented attempts to save the life of Donald Kellam, 1-year-old child of Edward Kellam, Richmond, Ind., who was burned to death Monday night at the Kellam home on the Boston Pike, two miles south of this city.

Kellam was employed by the Richmond, Ind., branch of The Eavey Co., Xenia wholesale grocery firm.

The mother of the child was absent from the house when the fire broke out. Charles Nicholson, passerby, saw the flames and tried to enter the house but was driven away by two vicious dogs. After several unsuccessful attempts to enter, Nicholson turned in a fire alarm.

Meanwhile Mrs. Kellam arrived home and it was not until then that the neighbors realized the child was in peril. Mrs. Kellam risked her life in a vain attempt to reach her boy, whose charred body was taken from the ruins some time after firemen had extinguished the blaze.

By winning one of its remaining nine games, the bowling Greene County Lumber Co. championship can clinch the championship of the Recreation League beyond any mathematical doubt. It is a foregone conclusion the champions will win the title for the second consecutive season as they hold a nine-game lead over the Red Wings.

Tuesday night, however, the league leaders passed up a chance to clinch the title three weeks in advance when they lost two out of three games to the Lang Chevrolet Co. Cox led the winners with 581 series. Dice topped the losers with 546. Box scores: Gr. Co. L. Co. Brickell 157 179 181 Dice 178 173 195 Peterson 172 179 187 Dummy 147 166 147 Dummy 150 136 158

MATCHES ARRANGED WITH MIAMISBURG AND TROY HIGH TEAM

Team Enters League
Tennis Tourney At
Piqua

With two home-and-home matches arranged with Miami Valley League opponents and plans completed to climax the season with a tournament at Piqua Saturday, May 18 to decide the league singles and doubles championships, prospective candidates for Xenia Central High School's tennis team this spring are awaiting favorable weather in order to start practice.

All of the six schools comprising the league expect to be represented by tennis teams this season. Xenia racquet wielders will play home-and-home matches with Miami Valley and Troy. The Bucanier tennis team will play at Miami Valley April 19 and the Burgers will come here for a return match April 26. Troy will appear here for a match May 3 and the Bucs will then return the courtesy by going to Troy, May 8.

Two singles and one doubles match will be played by the league teams. The Miami Valley matches will start after school at 4 o'clock and the Troy matches about 3 o'clock with a member of the faculty acting as referee.

Arrangements for the league tennis tourney at Piqua are also complete and the drawings have already been made.

The preliminary singles matches will be played in the morning and the doubles in the afternoon. The semi-finals and finals in the singles and doubles events will be played at a later date not yet decided upon.

In the first round in the singles Xenia meets Troy and Greenville plays Sidney at 9 a. m. The winners meet at 11 a. m. In the same bracket, Miami Valley and Piqua meet at 11 a. m., having drawn first round.

In the lower bracket, the other singles representatives of the six schools perform. Piqua and Miami Valley singles players meet at 10 a. m. and Xenia and Troy again at the same hour. Sidney and Greenville, having drawn byes, will meet at 12 m. as will the winners of the Piqua-Miami Valley and Xenia-Troy matches at the same hour. That brings the singles tourney up to the semi-finals.

In the doubles, Xenia drew a bye in the upper bracket and its two-man team will get into action at 4 p. m. against the winner of the Piqua-Greenville match, scheduled for 3 p. m. Sidney drew a bye in the lower bracket and will play also at 4 p. m. against the winner of the Miami Valley-Troy match, scheduled for 3 p. m.

In all regular season and tournament matches, the winner will be determined by victories in two out of three sets.

RUHLMAN LOSES AS LARGE DANCE HALL
DESTROYED BY FIRE

High G. Ruhlman, former Xenian, who had the second or main floor of the building under a lease as a dance hall for a number of years, was a heavy loser as a result of the fire which destroyed the Palace Gardens dance hall at Zanesville, O., Monday with a loss estimated at $150,000 partly covered by insurance.

While his loss in office furniture, fixtures, etc. was heavy, Ruhlman saved $750. He was using an electric organ from Moxahala Park, as music for skaters at the garden.

A Masonic Grotto exhibition was scheduled to open that night in the dance hall and by getting it out ahead of the grotto show, Ruhlman returned the organ to the park Monday. He saved the Moxahala Park Amusement Co. an organ and himself a possible replacement of it.

The Palace Gardens, the largest single exhibition floor under one roof in Southeastern Ohio, practically was a total loss. The fire was most spectacular and for a time threatened the entire downtown business section of the city.

Steve Phillips, this city, popular harness racing starting judge, was associated in business with Ruhlman and they both operate a skating rink at Lancaster, O.

Ruhlman at one time operated the old Lyric skating rink in Xenia and also formerly managed the dance hall at Kil Kare park on the Dayton-Xenia Pike, about three miles from the city.

WHEN EQUINOX COMES SPRING IS NIGH

Well, a bunch of us boys are going to sit up Wednesday night to see the vernal equinox perform its annual phenomena and if you are interested in things like that you are invited to bring a box of crackers and come along.

Our club has practically given up playing (fence lately, on account of everyone getting interested in Commander Byrd and his expedition and other scientific subjects. That's why the vernal equinox is crowding Greta Garbo for popularity with us boys now.

It seems that at the axis of the earth, if you are interested in technical things like that, is at right angles to the direction of the sun Wednesday night and that gives an opening for the vernal equinox to come through and do its stuff. The tilt of the earth causes the sun to pass the equator on its way north and that means that spring is here and you all know what spring means. Well if you don't, it means that summer is coming and summer always get a big play from us boys.

The sun is due to pass the equator at 9:35 p. m. but the book doesn't say why the sun should stay up that late at night just to pass the equator but maybe it's staying up to try to get station KDKA, for all us boys know.

Anyway, if you don't read this piece until Thursday, why then, spring will already be here and maybe it will be just as well that you didn't read it, anyway, because us boys are kind of exclusive.

NEXT WEDNESDAY

Emerson Tipton, 16, Washington C. H., confessed accomplice of Andrew Fleming, 18, also of Washington C. H., in the alleged theft of twenty-four Chrysler and Glen cars, near Cedarville, last Friday night, will have a hearing on a delinquency charge before Juvenile Judge S. C. Wright at 9 a. m. Wednesday, March 27. The youth was brought into court Wednesday morning, and after being questioned, was remanded to the County Jail to await his hearing.

Tipton's companion, Andrew Fleming, was bound over to the grand jury on a charge of burglary and larceny Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Steele Says of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Pratt, W. Va.—"I was so weak and nervous that I was in the bed most all the time and couldn't sit up and I am only 30 years old. I saw your advertisement in a magazine and after I had taken three doses of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I could feel that I was better. After taking two bottles I began doing my work and I feel like a new woman. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends and say it will do all it claims to do and more. I will gladly answer all letters I receive."—Mrs. S. E. STEELE, Pratt, W. Va.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—no woman can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 30 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color. These tablets are wonder-workers of the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste of a poisonous matter in one's system. If you have a pale face, hollow looking eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headache, a listless, no-good feeling, all of sorts, inactive bowels, you take of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets night for a time and note

THE STORY OF A GIRL WHO MADE MEN LIKE HER

READ THIS FIRST:

Betty Brown, dancer, finds her profession brings her in contact with many undesirable men. It also drives away old friends of the days before the death of her father and mother. Of these, George Harris alone remains. An automobile accident in the car of Andy Adair, the petted son of wealthy parents, leaves her in the hospital with a dislocated knee. It is Harris, not Adair, who pays her bills and looks after her. Harris gives Betty work in his restaurant. She determines to marry him when he asks her, although it is duty, not love, which prompts her. Betty has an operation on her knee, which will cure it, but the bill is much larger than she can pay.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLII

Betty was much disheartened at Doctor Clark's bill for five hundred and fifty dollars. She had paid her bills at the hospital out of her scanty savings, and had less than sixty dollars in the savings account which she had started at the advice of George Harris. Her first thought was to go to George about the matter, but he had done so much for her, and her obligation to him was already so great, that she felt she could not let him pay this bill.

She was due to go to Doctor Clark's office that afternoon for a treatment. She would ask if she could settle the bill in small payments. At the office she was told by the doctor's secretary that he wanted to see her that afternoon, and to wait when her treatment was over.

When she was in his office he said, in his blunt, blustering way: "Let me see your knees!" He sat down before her. Betty loosened the fastening of her stocking and pulled it down. "Both of 'em," he said. "I want to compare them." He felt both knees carefully, bent and straightened them, and had her walk up and down the room. "You are all right now. You need not come back any more." He turned back and was about to put his finger on the buzzer to call another patient. "Doctor, I want to see you about your bill," began Betty, timidly. She held it in her hand and he reached for it.

"Bill? Bill? What about my bill?"

"It is for five hundred and fifty dollars. I have only a little money in the bank. I want to know if I can settle it a little at a time until I get it all paid up."

He made a mark on the bill with his pencil and said: "Take it in my secretary's shop. I'll attend to all the rest of them and will arrange it with you. Good-bye!"

It was with trepidation that Betty went to the secretary. She did not like to confess that she could not pay the bill except a little at a time.

"The doctor told me to see you about this bill," said Betty. "I have only about fifty-five dollars in the bank. I want to arrange to pay it a little at a time."

"Could you pay as much as fifty dollars as a first payment?" asked the secretary, smiling.

"Yes."

"Then look at the bill!" She handed it to Betty as she spoke. The doctor's pencil had scratched out the five hundred dollars and left only the fifty. "Fifty dollars all I charged you. I made out the bill for his usual charge. He had not seen it until just now, when you showed it to him."

"Oh, I must go back and thank him!" exclaimed Betty, delighted.

"If I let you go back in there to thank him he would swear at me for a week," laughed the secretary. "I will tell him, however; then he will only growl."

It was a light heart Betty carried back to the restaurant. When she told George her experience he said: "That was very fine of the doctor. It shows how ready everyone is to help a person who is trying to get along in some legitimate way. Remember how kindly the president of the bank treated me when I was here instead of dancing brought you this good luck."

Betty bit her lip impatiently, but did not reply. George was so set in his ways that she found it difficult not to be irritated at times, but he was so sound in his friendship, and so kindly in an emergency, that she could never quarrel about anything he said.

"George, I want to talk with you about something. Can you come to the house tonight?"

"I'll drive you home when we close," he answered. "We can talk in the car. It is difficult to talk at your house with all the little Hogs around."

When the restaurant was closed she got into the car with George. As the head waitress passed out the door, Betty imagined that she held her head a bit high and spoke her "Good night" sarcastically.

George drove as carefully as he lived. As he passed one of the Dayton accounts in the file were found still legible when removed.

"George," began Betty, "you are paying me more than I am worth. I also think you are paying me all I can ever hope to get, and that I should not stay where there is no further opportunity for advancement."

"I have not been paying you more than you are worth," answered George, gravely. "There is a limit to what I can pay a cashier because of the nature of the work. That is academic, however. I can't expect you to stay with me if you have a better opportunity elsewhere, although I hoped to have you with me always."

"I have nothing in particular in view, and no intention of leaving you at present," Betty tried to steer the conversation away from the personal. "But it seems to me that I am wasting a lot of time. I don't care anywhere in the evening except to an occasional moving picture. I have few men friends and few women friends. I know there are business schools where I could join night classes. I want your advice. Should I take up secretarial work in business college at night? I wish I had taken it instead of the cultural work when we were in school."

"Culture is never lost. I am glad we took the courses we did. I have often felt, however, the loss of business training. Your plan is good. We have several letters a day at the restaurant; I will put a typewriter behind your desk and you can write letters for me. As soon as you have sufficient bookkeeping knowledge of bookkeeping will certainly be to your advantage."

He took it for granted that she was going to business school to increase her efficiency in her present work. Betty did not have the courage to tell him her object was to get into more congenial employment.

She had not realized until now that she planned to go to him and avoid the future as his wife. Now she knew she was deliberately planning to get away from the prospect of marrying George. She felt ashamed of herself.

She sat silent while George went into a long dissertation on the subject of people failing to make all possible preparations for business careers and the handicap lack of education was to people trying to make a living.

"You are right, George," agreed Betty. "No matter what I do, a knowledge of stenography, typing and bookkeeping will always be to my advantage. If you approve, I will look into the matter of expense and hours and start in at once."

"I approve thoroughly. This is a fine way to put in your leisure time. If it is necessary, you can get away from your work a little earlier. I stand ready to help and encourage you in any way at any time, Betty."

"I know, George, you always have."

"We were reared side by side. We went to school together. Betty, I want to tell you that I have always had a deep and lasting affection for you and—"

"We had a lot of fun at school, didn't we, George," she interrupted. "When we were kids we took ourselves and our studies very seriously."

"We were right to do so!" replied George, diverted from his sentimental speech. "Serious work in school is the proper foundation for that serious thing we call life. If we don't take school work seriously we are not likely to take life seriously. Life is real life, is earnest, as the poet has so aptly put it."

"Well, I'm going to work seriously at business school. I'm glad you think as I do about it. But we had better be going home. Mrs. Hogan will think I have been run away with!"

"I am glad you consulted me. No one has a greater interest in your future than I, Betty. It is my pleasure and my duty to guide and direct you. I am always pleased to have you come to me. I told you recently I am in loco parentis to my family. I shall be glad to help you in any laudable undertaking."

"All right, George," sighed Betty. "I have an idea I can be of some service to you, also. I wish you would try to learn to laugh, George. I am not being critical, but there must be some funny things in the world! I wish you would learn to see them."

"No doubt you are right," George said, grimly. "But laughter is for women and children. Men have to carry on the business of the world and there is little to laugh at. I understand what you mean, however. I suppose I would be a more popular restaurateur if I cultivated a sense of humor."

"George, I want to talk with you about something. Can you come to the house tonight?"

"I'll drive you home when we close," he answered. "We can talk in the car. It is difficult to talk at your house with all the little Hogs around."

Oratorical fireworks were scheduled in the house late today.

The occasion will be the renewal of the biennial battle over the bill to give chiropractors their own examining and licensing board, separate from the state medical board, and to establish standards for the profession.

The bill, an initiated measure, is the first on the house calendar for consideration.

Advocates of the bill, despite the treatment accorded similar measures in the past, are predicting its passage.

Opponents were equally optimistic in predicting the measure would be defeated.

The house, late yesterday, approved the senate's amendments to the Robt-Morgan state office building and started the measure on its way to Governor Cooper for his signature.

The measure is the third of the administration's program to be approved by the legislature.

By vote of 194-7 the house approved the Emmons-Hanna bill, to establish Bowling Green and Kent State normal schools as colleges. Both institutions, under this bill, will be authorized to grant B. A. and B. S. degrees and to provide additional courses of study and additional instructors to qualify students for these degrees.

The bill had previously passed the senate, but goes back to that body for approval of a minor amendment.

The bill by Rep. C. M. Emory, Pike County, to make cigarette dealers selling cigarettes in quantities or more than one carton, pay the $200 a year wholesaler's license tax, passed the house without a dissenting vote.

The measure aimed at "chain" groceries and drugstores now paying only the $50 retailer's license, has yet to be approved by the senate.

The house, also without an opposing vote, passed the bill by Rep. C. C. Runser, Hardin County, to make unlawful, entry of a poultry house or brooder house punishable by penitentiary sentence of 60 to 120 days. This measure also goes now to the senate.

Although the house is overwhelmingly Republican, it sustained one of former Governor Donahay's vetoes of two years ago when it defeated the Ingalls bill, authorizing trial courts to appoint expert witnesses in criminal cases in which insanity is not a defense. The vote was seventy-three to twenty-three.

The same bill was passed by the 1927 legislature but was vetoed by Donahay, whose veto message was cited in the debate.

The bill by Mrs. Clara Wood, Cleveland, providing that women over sixteen years of age shall be sentenced to jail or workhouse imprisonment instead of Marysville Reformatory when convicted of misdemeanors, was approved in the house by vote of 95 to 1.

RECOVER FILE

A filing cabinet stolen from the Robert Dun store, New Antioch, February 26, was taken from Anderson's Park at the Wilmington and Xenia Pike bridge Monday after Lynn Glick and Clarence Valentine confessed to the robbery and revealed that they threw the file in the creek. They are held in Dayton accused of twenty-two robberies. Accounts in the file were found still legible when removed.

"George," began Betty, "you are

WOMEN FINED AFTER PLEADING GUILTY

Changing their minds just as a jury was about to be impaneled to try them on charges of contributing to the dependency of Vera Deed, their 13-year-old daughter and sister, Mrs. Ollie Pierce Doss, 45, and her daughter, Mrs. Clarabelle Miller, 23, pleaded guilty and were each fined $50 and costs and sentenced to thirty days in the County Jail by Probate Judge S. C. Wright Tuesday. The women had previously entered not guilty pleas and had demanded jury trials. The girl has been hunted up and sent to the County Children's Home, that county being her former home.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart spent Sunday with their daughter, Elsie, of Osborn, who has been ill for some time.

Russell Darnier, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Darnier, fell and received a serious cut on his head. He is recovering nicely.

BRINGING UP FATHER

AM-MR. JIGGS-IS IT TRUE THAT YOUR WIFE IS GOING TO ITALY?

IT'S POSITIVE.

so ill that I began to fear that there was nothing to help me. Everything I tried failed, and I might just as well have taken so much water. I was sick all over, had dizzy spells, and was very nervous and weak.
"I had read and heard of so many fine things about this Konjola, and what it was doing in almost hopeless cases, that I determined to find out more about it myself. I was not long in learning that Konjola is all and more than is claimed for it. Three bottles swept away that tired feeling, calmed my nerves, and ended the dizzy spells. I could feel renewed strength all over me. I am doing my work now, and gaining in weight and in strength. Konjola is simply wonderful, and I take pleasure in adding my endorsement to the thousands who know what this remedy really is."
Konjola is different from any other known remedy in this section. It contains 22 juices extracted from natural plants, which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to a more healthy action. The effect of Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that has been going on for years. At the same time, many weak and run-down systems have been restored to a new state of health thru this compound. Farm Notes

PLANTS SOYBEANS WITH CORN
Corn and soybeans planted together for silage produced 3,432 pounds more of silage per acre than corn alone in tests conducted by J. B. Park and H. L. Borst, on the Ohio State University farm at Columbus.
Clara corn and Peking soybeans were grown in the experiments, which have covered a period of six years. The corn was drilled at three different rates 7, 14, and 22 inches and the beans at 2, 4, and 8 inches apart in the rows. The combination rates that produced the best yields varied from year to year. The highest average yield was from corn planted at 14 inches with soybeans at 4 to 5 inches apart.
The combined yields of mature corn and soybeans grown together averaged 57 pounds less of total grain per acre than that of corn grown alone. The average production of the mixture was 6.6 bushels of soybeans and 48.6 bushels of corn, while that of corn alone was 57.7 bushels.
The value placed on the soybeans in the silage or for hog or sheep pasture with corn, it was explained, will determine largely whether the mixture is profitable or not.

"ALL RUN DOWN"
KONJOLA BRINGS
QUICK RELIEF

Grateful Lady Declares That New Medicine Was First And Only One That Touched Her Case

"It is easy for me to understand why Konjola is known as the medicine with more than a million friends," said Mrs. Josephine Jones, Route No. 1, Valley Pike, Dayton, Ohio. "For the past year I was so ill that I began to fear that there was nothing to help me. Everything I tried failed, and I might just as well have taken so much water. I was sick all over, had dizzy spells, and was very nervous and weak.

"I had read and heard of so many fine things about this new Konjola, and what it was doing in almost hopeless cases, that I determined to find out more about it myself. I was not long in learning that Konjola is all and more than is claimed for it. Three bottles swept away that tired feeling, calmed my nerves, and ended the dizzy spells. I could feel renewed strength all over me. I am doing my work now, and gaining in weight and in strength. Konjola is simply wonderful, and I take pleasure in adding my endorsement to the thousands who know what this remedy really is."

Konjola is different from any other known remedy in this section. It contains 22 juices extracted from natural plants, which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to a more healthy action. The effect of Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that has been going on for years. At the same time, many weak and run-down systems have been restored to a new state of health thru this compound. Such a vast number of men and women in this city have told of their experience with this new medical product until now, Konjola is the most highly indorsed medicine that is known in this vicinity.

Konjola is sold in Xenia at the Gallaher drug store, and by all the best druggists throughout this entire section. —Adv

Farm Notes

PLANTS SOYBEANS WITH CORN

Corn and soybeans planted together for silage produced 3,432 pounds more of silage per acre than corn alone in tests conducted by J. B. Park and H. L. Borst, on the Ohio State University farm at Columbus.

Clara corn and Peking soybeans were grown in the experiments, which have covered a period of six years. The corn was drilled at three different rates 7, 14, and 22 inches and the beans at 2, 4, and 8 inches apart in the rows. The combination rates that produced the best yields varied from year to year. The highest average yield was from corn planted at 14 inches with soybeans at 4 to 5 inches apart.

The combined yields of mature corn and soybeans grown together averaged 57 pounds less of total grain per acre than that of corn grown alone. The average production of the mixture was 6.6 bushels of soybeans and 48.6 bushels of corn, while that of corn alone was 57.7 bushels.

The value placed on the soybeans in the silage or for hog or sheep pasture with corn, it was explained, will determine largely whether the mixture is profitable or not.
